"It's time-consuming," Oliver said. "I spend Sunday and Monday writing the stories for the weekly paper."

Oliver says he typically doesn't interview the coaches immediately after a game. He usually can catch them at school for their comments from the coaches about his stories. Sophomore Angle Bode knocked in a rebound for the game-winning goal midway through the second half of the national tour-nament championship game to give Lewis and Clark its first national championship in school history.

The goal was the second of the game for Bode, and her 42nd of the season. Earlier this season, Bode set all-time goal and being records at the school.

"It's a very good feeling." Bode said of scoring the goal that decided the national championship. "But I didn't go into the game thinking about scoring individual goals. It makes me feel good for the team that I could get the big goal and help us win the national title."

Bode's two goals gave her five for the national tournament and earned her the tournament's Most Valuable Player Award for forwards. Lewis and Clark placed four players on the all-tournament team, earned the Coach of the Year Award for Tim Rooney and won the tournament's Sportsmanship Award.

"Bode is that type of player," Lewis and Clark coach Tim Rooney said. "If you give her many chances, she will burn you. Bode is one of the best players in the nation. But all of the players on this year's team have been special. It has been a joy to watch them play."

Sports

Keeper Meghan Lang and midfielders Jamie Dienell and Debra Aaron were also all-tournament selections. Lang, who began the season as a forward but became the Trailblazers keeper early in the season after an injury to Liz Gervich, made several key saves in the tournament championship game.

"The title game was probably the best game of the tournament for Lang," Rooney said. "She was aggressive and came out to make some big saves and clear some balls before they became trouble for us."

Lewis and Clark finished the season 25-1, with a 23-game winning streak that tied a single-season mark for most consecutive wins

"Sandbagging" is a slang term used to describe a car that is being intentionally divensioner than its capability. The connotation is similar to that of "playing possum." The winner of this year's season finale, and also three of the last four, was Labante, who somehow managed to roar to the front from a 37th starting position. Under NASCAR's convoluted rules, Labante could not even make the starting field based on his qualifying speed, 188.822 mph. The Pontlac driver had to resort to a provisional slot to start the race 37th. By lap 34, Labante's Pontiac had zipped to 10th place. He took the lead for the first time at lap 91, Despite this late arrival at the front of the pack, Labante wound up leading 147 of the 325 laps, 75 more than any other driver.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Geoffrey Bodine vs. Kenny Irwin

A nudge by Irwin's Ford from behind put Bodine's contending Chevrolet out of contention. Bodine appeared to move down as he entered the tri-oval to avoid contact with Mark Martin's Ford. It was the end of a frustrating season for Bodine.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "The presence of Martin on Bodine's outside made this one difficult to call. Certainly there was no reason for Irwin to boot Bodine at such an early point of the race, but Bodine's frustration was estandable. He started fourth, another in a series of fine qualifying performances, but his finishes showed no improvement, in part because of incidents like this one."

WINSTON CUP

Coming up: Winston Cup Awards Banquet

Where: Grand Ballroom, Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New

When: Friday, Dec. 3 To honor: Dale Jarrett, the 1999 champion

Also on the agenda: Speeches and highlight videos to honor the top 10 drivers, special announcements, rookle-ofthe-year presentation to Tony Stewart, presentations to season's top car owner,

Robert Yates, and members of the championship team, as well as Ford Motor Co., winner of the manufacturer's championship

SCHEDULE

Why New York? Though not exactly a hotbed of stockcar-racing interest, NASCAR holds its banquet in The Big dozen races at Highland Rim Speedway near Nashville, Tenn., before he even had a driver's license.

He even had a pole in the Busch Series while still 17.

"We think we can do that, we know we can do that," he said. "We think it's important."

The district is seeking public input on a proposed 5-year plan, and has put out a survey on the district ended they liked what the district was doing and wanted a new community center.

Polivick said the YMCA is also considering a new location.

Nov. 16 deadline for returning the survey, but Polivick said they would take them as long as possible.

"Without public input, the plan is of little value," he said.

The final draft should be complete by February and another public meeting will then be scheduled.

The plan may be adopted in the spring.

Polivick said the survey was a very important part of the plan.

The survey asks residents to rate what kind of improvements programs they are interested in, should the district consider expanding the number or size of parks and if the public would support a tax increase to pay for more programs and opportunities.

If you have the arms of Hercules the task would be as easy as tossing a plastic ball.

For Arian Sendejos, a 96-pound 14-year-old, hurling the bird was like trying to throw a bowling ball a great distance.

"It's too heavy. I mean it's really heavy."

Sendejos said. "I tried 10 shots and missed them all. I didn't even come close, not once."

Sendejos was one of about 250 youths from a dozen denominational churches in Granite City who participated in the "Turkey Palooza"

Wednesday evening at City Temple Assembly of God church, located off Maryville Road. The event, comprised of team-oriented, fun-filled games, was sponsored by an inter-denominational group of local youth pas-fors.

games, was sponsored by an inter-denominational group of local youth pastors.

Besides shooting turkey hoops, the youths participated in turkey football, turkey shot-put, turkey bowling, a pie-eating contest and a greased pig contest in the church parking lot to the sound of Christian music.

Mark Taylor, an energetic 16-year-old, said he bowled and shot the hoops well, but failed miserably trying to catch ham and beans, the names given to two feisty pigs that seemed to be out of everyone's reach.

"They're quick,"
Taylor said. 'I slipped twice trying to get one of them. I didn't know they could move that fast."
While the greased pig contest seemed to be the most difficult form of entertainment, bowling seemed to be the easiest as real bowling pins were smacked around with little difficulty.

"I got two strikes and knocked all of them down

Charlotte Adams. "It's kind of like real bowling in a way, but a lot easier."

Jason Stickles, one of the local pastors who helped organize the event, said Turkey Palooza was a way for youth, ages 11 to 17, to come together.

Jason Stickes, one of the organizers, talks to the crowd about the events.

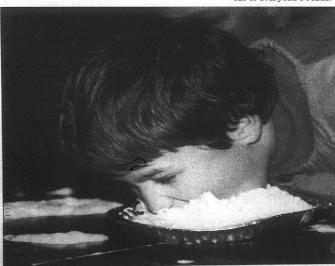

Turkey basketball was one of the activities, the goal being to heft a 12-pound turkey through the hoop.

Trivia

Test your Turkey Day knowledge

As a kid, if someone asked me what was my favorite holiday, Thanksgiving was always my answer.

It was not merely because I loved to eat turkey and pie. I mean, you also ate well at Christmas. There was barbecue on Independence Day and candy at Easter and Halloween.

No, what I liked about Thanksgiving was that it was a laid-back holiday. You didn't have children going out of their minds in anticipation of opening their gifts. What you had was the family members getting together to tell jokes, eat and drink and enjoy each other's company.

You also had the whole holiday season in front of you on Thanksgiving Day. It was a "Friday night" feeling, when you knew you not only were going to get to have fun now but for the immediate future, as well. Christmas was and always will be the biggest day of the year for kids, but once Dec. 25 was over, you felt a letdown. There would be another whole year to pass before you would receive the next haul of presents. Plus, by Dec. 26, I invariably had broken several of my new toys. Thanksgiving, however, was the jumping off point for the Christmas season. The television networks started running Christmas-theme movies or, at least, began advertising when they would air. One of the best Christmas films, "Miracle on 34th Street," actually opens with a scene at the Macys's Thanksgiving Day parade.

For this week's quiz, the topic is Thanksgiving.

- 1. In what month is Thanksgiving celebrated in Canada?
- 2. Thanksgiving became an official U.S. holiday during
- the term of which president?
  3. In the movie "Planes, Trains & Automobiles," which two actors are trying to get home to Chicago for

Area theaters bring Christmas spirit

This season's production to be like vaudeville show

By Jennifer Saxton

With Christmas approaching, two area community theaters are bringing the Christmas spirit to the stage.

The street decorations have been slowly going up since the end of October, stores are getting ready for the holiday rush and several Christmas shows have been in the works since September.

The Lincoln Theatre in Belleville and the Miners Theatre in Collinsville are helping many spend a day together with their loved ones.

For the third year on Dec. 5, the Lincoln will become a winter wonderland with music and dancing for all those who wish to attend.

David Schoenborn, director, said the Christmas show this year is more like a Vaudeville show with a variety of different acts.

The headliner of the show is Mark Gifford, who will be playing selections from his new Christmas CD that was recorded on the organ at the Lincoln Theatre. The CD is called "Pipe in a Swingin' Christmas."

"Belleville is home. It blows my mind that I'm performing in the building I used to go to as a kid," Gifford said.

Schoenborn said Gifford will incorporate all the musical drums to the Oriental gong.

"He really takes advantage of all the instruments on the organ," Schoenborn said. "Its always a fun time with Mark because he is very comedic while he is at the microphone." Beside the musical talents of Gifford, the Christmas show will also include the Union Methodist Hand Bell Choir and the Singing Lincolnettes. There will also be sing-a-long Christmas carols with the organ.

The Singing Lincolnettes will perform a two song acts and three dance acts.

"There is just enough echo

se creates controversy

Hype and controversy, fire and brimstone surround the release of Kevin Smith's "Dogma." Angry Catholics who haven't even seen the movie besiege Smith with hate mail. which he's only too happy to post on the film's Web site.

But the devout need not worry - "Dogma" isn't the first sign of the apocalypse. The film's cardinal sin is its unevenness: It starts out enormously funny and then grinds to a halt without ever regaining momen-

Writer-director Smith bills his movie as "a comic fantasia." Its surreal, for sure, and tackles religion in a totally innovative

Try to follow the premise: Loki (Matt Damon) and Bartleby (Ben Affleck) are fallls who have been banished from heaven to a place they imagine is worse than hell Wisconsin. They figure if they can get to New Jersey and walk through the doors of a 100-yearold church, they can re-enter heaven and prove God fallible, therefore negating existence. But God has chosen Bethany (Linda Fiorentino), an Illinois abortion clinic worker and wavering Catholic, to stop them from entering the church and save the world.

The basic plot isn't even the most convoluted part. There are so many layers of activity going on at once, it's hard to figure out who is doing what to whom. Smith adds to the mix a stripper/muse, a trio of homicidal skate punks from hell and even himself -re-creating the role of Silent Bob from his previous films like "Clerks."

"Dogma" boasts a strong ensemble cast, including George Carlin, Salma Hayek, Chris Rock, Alan Rickman, Janeane Garofalo and Jason Lee. There's even Alanis Morissette as an ethereal, goofy God who takes human form so she can visit

Earth to play skee-ball. But there are almost too many stars, each of whom gets a lengthy monologue on faith, God and the world as we know it. Like "Clerks," Smith's first film, "Dogma" is talky. It's also too long, although it reportedly began life at three hours and has been trimmed to just over two. Much of the dialogue is

'Anywhere But Here': dreary confusing mess of a film

"Anywhere But Here" is probably the most appropriate title for this new comedy/drama starring Susan Sarandon and Natalie Portman.

In fact, it's such a fitting description that during the screening, if anyone had asked me where I'd like to be at that particular moment, I would have truthfully answered "Anywhere but here."

And that's really frustrating because with its talented cast and crew, the film should not have turned out as poorly as it did.

Susan Sarandon is, arguably, one of the most accomplished actresses working today and Natalie Portman, fresh off her success in "Star Wars," is a rising young star with an impressive resume.

And with Wayne Wang ("The Joy Luck Club") behind the camera, "Anywhere But Here" should have been a solid, heartwarming film instead of the boring, dreary, confusing mess that appeared onscreen.

Set in 1995, this is the story of Ann August (Portman) and her rather colorful mother, Adele (Sarandon). Seeking a better life for herself and her daughter, Adele packs up all their belongings and drives the two of them to Los Angeles.

Unlike normal parent/child relationships, Adele is the starry-eyed dreamer while Ann is the more practical and realistic of the two, planning and saving for the day when she finally can escape from her loony mother.

Over two agonizing hours, the problems with this film become painfully obvious, starting with the main characters. Since Ann has a tendency to whine and complain too much, it's hard to feel sympathy for her, even when Adele is disrupting her life.

And the screenplay offers hints that Adele may have serious psychological problems, but these are never explored in any detail. If anyone exhibited these same symptoms in real life, their loved ones would have taken them to the family doctor.

Director Wang also wastes the talents of co-stars Bonnie Bedelia ("Die Hard") and Shawn Hatosy ("Outside Providence"). Hatosy, in fact, is the only member of the cast that makes the most of his limited character.

"Anywhere But Here" contains nothing that deserves your time, attention or money. My best recommendation is to head to the local video store and rent "Beautiful Girls" and "Bull Durham," two better examples of what Portman and Sarandon can do respectively.

"Anywhere But Here" opens Nov. 12 and is rated PG-13.

Hart Bochner, Susan Sarandon and Natalie Portman mingle on the beach in "Anywhere But Here."

that will really add to the sounds of the bells," Schoenborn said. "Besides sounding beautiful, it is a very visible experience for people of all ages."

ence for people of all ages."
Also, this year, the Miner's Family Players are bringing the story of "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" to the stage. Director Carol Hobson and musical director Brice LeBlanc are working to get the stage ready.

"The story is a heartwarming comedy," Hobson said. A local church is putting

A local church is putting together a Christmas pageant and six local misfits, the Herdsman, found out that they can get free goodies at Sunday School. The Herdsman show up one Sunday for candy and cake when the teacher is giving out parts for the pageant.

The Herdsman get all the main parts, not knowing anything about the Christmas

Throughout the play, they begin to understand the story of Mary and Joseph, as well as the true meaning of Christmas.

"In the story, none of the Herdsman have ever known the meaning of giving, sharing and the spirit of Christmas," Hobson said. "This is a wonderful play for all ages, children and elderly."

Since this is a play within a play, there is music throughout the story from a children's choir and a female quartet from Gateway Sounds.

"I think the area is hungry for more artistic endeavors," LeBlanc said. "This area has gotten away from the community feeling. This is a good way to bring those feelings back."

For information about the Lincoln Theater Christmas Show, call 233-0018. The show starts at 2 p.m. Dec. 5. Tickets cost $10.

For more information about "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever," call 344-0026. Show times are 7:30 p.m. Dec. 4 and 2 p.m. Dec. 5. Tickets cost $4 for children and $5 for adults.

'Dogma' film stirs religious controversy

extremely funny, though. The film begins with Carlin, as Cardinal Glick, announcing a public relations campaign called "Catholicism WOW!" that features a smiling, winking "Buddy Christ" who gives the thumbs-up sign. "Christ didn't come to Earth to give us the willies," the cardinal says, pointing to an austere looking crucifix.

Meanwhile, Loki and

Meanwhile, Loki and Bartleby kill time at the Milwaukee airport by talking nuns out of believing in God and reading the thoughts of people walking off airplanes.

After the first half hour, though, the pacing slows, and there are endless stretches of time between the quick bursts of humor.

Several elaborately constructed scenes go nowhere, including one in which Loki and Bartleby ambush a board of directors meeting of "Mooby the Cow," a cartoon golden calf in boxer shorts that's clearly a spoof of Mickey Mouse. Bartleby catalogs the sins of all the directors before Loki uses them for target practice with his new gun.

But Damon and Affleck have great chemistry as always, and each turns in a strong performance - especially Affleck, who is proving himself increasingly versatile. Florentino functions well as the only ordinary person in the bunch; she manages to go along on this wild journey without losing her sense of self. Rickman gets some of the best lines, and is perfectly wry and uppity as the voice of God. She can't speak for herself, so why shouldn't she have a rich English accent instead?

And the subject matterwhich has caused such a tizzyis mild, indeed. Ultimately, the characters enjoy redemption and a real shot at faith.

"Dogma" is rated R, containing strong language and violence. It began life as a release of Miramax Films -a Disney subsidiary-but controversy over the movie's subject matter forced it to the more independent Lions Gate Films. Running time: 125 minutes.

Resettlement center offers preview of new building

By Glen Sparks Staff writer

First, visit the current headquarters of the International Institute of Metro St. Louis, its president Anna Crosslin suggests.

Then, take a look at the institute's future facility, she said

"You need to do that to see what a real improvement this is," Crosslin said at a sneak preview reception held Friday at the institute's almost completed new home, at 3654 S. Grand Blvd.

The International Institute will be moving to a building that has 400 percent more meeting and counseling space than the current center at 3800 Park Ave. It has 50 percent more classroom space and 30 percent more room for offices.

Crosslin said the new facility should open in mid-December.

"We've simply outgrown our current building," she said.

Bank of America, formerly NationsBank, donated the building to the institute in late 1997. The Institute is getting state tax credits to fund part of the facility's renovation. Former St. Louis Mayor Jim Conway is leading a campaign to raise $2.5 million to complete the work.

Crosslin said the entire first floor of the building was rehabbed. Much of the second floor also needed rehabbing, she said. The 70-year-old building originally was a car dealership, but most recently it was a medical office center.

The city's refugee population now exceeds 35,000. In 1998, the institute helped almost 1,400 people fleeing war-torn nations, including more than 200 Kosovars from the former Yugoslavia. The number of refugees resettled here has doubled in the last decade.

The stretch of South Grand from Arsenal to Utah already has a thriving international community.

Motor failure shuts down skating rink

By Heather Cole Staff writer

One of St. Louis's Thanksgiving traditions has simply melted away.

Since its opening 40 years ago, the Steinberg Skating Rink in Forest Park has been open on Thanksgiving, said Elizabeth Falk, rink manager

But not this year. A faulty motor failed, and the rink won't open until at least late December.

"We expressed to Ameren that if we lose power, we lose the ice."

> Elizabeth Falk Manager, Steinberg Rink

The cooling system motor that keeps the rink on ice failed twice this month. The 40-year-old motor was repaired the first time by Zeller Electric, Inc., Falk said. Zeller Electric employees said after the repair that the motor could not be turned off, said Dan Skillman, commissioner of parks for the city Parks, Recreation and Forestry Division.

Power to the motor was stopped, however, during a planned outage by AmerenUE for construction at Barnes Jewish Children's Hospital.

Zeller Electric officials got a look at the motor Monday and said the bearings were bad, but there may be more problems with the motor as well, Skillman said. Skillman said city officials are hoping the motor will be repaired by Christmas.

In the meanwhile, the rink, which is operated by Critter Company, will be closed during the busiest time of the year and will miss a third of the season, Falk said.

"It's been a big question, who's to blame," Falk said. "We expressed to Ameren that if we lose power, we lose the

Motor failure shuts down skating rink

Skillman said the city was not intending to hold the elec-tric company liable. The city already had been seeking to rehabilitate a similar motor for use as a backup, Skillman said.

"We had some problems initially with the motor," Skillman said. "We were hopeful it would kind of limp through the season."

AmerenUE officials gave 10 days notice of the planned outage, said Susan Gallagher, a spokeswoman for the company. The hospital had to have the power for a crane it was operating, and couldn't wait until spring to continue the construction, Gallagher

Gallagher said AmerenUE knew the rink had been having problems with the motor but did not know the rink hadn't done anything to prepare for the outage.

The city may buy a new motor, Skillman said, but the motors cost $18,000 to $20,000, must be custom built, and can take up to six months to be delivered.

A canned food drive for Places for People is still underway at the rink during normal business hours, Falk said. When the rink does reopen, skaters will find all new skates and longer hours than last season, she said. The rink will be open all day, instead of only during sched-uled skating times, she said.
